THE BOOK OF ANN

I would go crazy with jealousy if Bob loved another woman.

"Philandering"—that's the first step toward the divorce court—and such a careless step in many cases! Thus spoke myself to myself after I had slipped into a low chair in a corner to watch the group around the tea-table.

"Philandering" after marriage is just like "fussing" before marriage. I recalled a definition I had seen in the "column" of the college bulletin: "Fussing is paying attention without intention."

"That's exactly what the married philanderer does and what his wife will never pardon," ran my meditation. "But the careless husband expects her to because he knows it, he's in deeper than he ever intended to get."

Bob had philandered once upon a time with Katherine Miller. I guess a lot of wives have had a bit of the same experience with their men, and some wives have gone to the divorce court in consequence—and have regretted it later.

I suppose Bob and I might have separated, if I hadn't tried to use a little sense. Bob had sense, too. Instead of getting angry when I was jealous, he owned up that I had my rights. Bob is a gentleman, every way.

But some husbands are not. There are men who will flirt with a pretty girl right before the eyes of their wives! I've seen it done in crowded places. Men of a certain vain type—which is none too limited—do that. Of course, they don't realize that they are belittling themselves in the eyes of all observers. They only think how clever they are "to put it over" their wives.

Vulgar! The crudest, rudest kind of philandering! Women of every class ought to unite to put down that style of flirting!

But of course, there are some women who philander. Some young girls think themselves "smart" when they can take a married man's attention away from his "old" wife! They pay in the end, and they deserve to. The girl who thinks she can escape payment is limited mentally as well as morally.

My Bob was instinctively too fine to let himself in for a vulgar flirtation. I regarded him, across the room, with much pride.

How would it feel to be divorced from him?

That was unthinkable. Why, I never buy a pair of pumps but I must have his approval of them before I can enjoy them myself!

"Silly things!" is his usual comment, if he thinks I am silly. When I go on to the end of my days wanting to know what he thought about my new hats and frocks!

A slight thing—duplicate presents—had cut short Mrs. Best's patience with her matrimonial state. It had driven her half mad, she said.

Just as small a thing would drive me wild if Bob loved another woman. I would certainly go crazy with jealousy if any other woman could ask

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

SLEEKER TELLS HOW IT IS

The twins were about to cut off Sleeker Swallow's tail at his request when Rubadub, the fairyman, interfered.

"Wait a moment," said he. "How far can you fly without stopping, Sleeker?"

"Hundreds of miles," answered Sleeker proudly. "Only I could fly further still if I hadn't these tight clothes on, and this long-tailed coat!"

"Hm!" said Rubadub. "Hm! Just so! Do you ever rest?"

"Oh, yes," admitted Sleeker. "But I don't stop. I just spread my wings out further and the air gets under them and under my tail and holds me up. I rest nicely as I soar!"

"Now about your tail! How do you stick into cliffs and chimneys when they're straight up and down, as you say you do?"

"Well," admitted Sleeker uneasily, but truthfully, "I dig in my claws, and I dig my tail feathers in, too. That holds me up fine!"

"And if you had loose clothes on when you fly, the wind would get inside and hold you back, wouldn't it?" urged Rubadub.

Sleeker nodded reluctantly.

"How far can you fly without stopping, Sleeker?"

"Well then, as far as I can see, you're dressed all right," decided Rubadub. "Perhaps you don't like your looks, but that's foolish. None of us can help that. Besides I think under your picture in the Bird-Book you're marked, 'Handsome.' That ought to satisfy you."

"All right!" agreed Sleeker grudgingly. "I'll try it another year. I'll be off now to the Land-Where-Spring-Is-Coming. If the dandelions are out, people will be expecting me. Besides, the blossoms will bring out all the bees, and I do love the bees!"

Sleeker didn't explain what he meant by that exactly, but Rubadub, looking up the cupboard before closing Scrub-Up Land for the season, winked at the twins with a queer little grin.

and get Bob's judgment about her clothes!

I shivered at the thought of it. Perhaps if I looked into the future with more imagination they wouldn't be in such haste to have their names enrolled on divorce records.

A queer little spasm of conscience hurt me.

Most married persons start out, like Bob and me, with the best of intentions. What makes them come to divorce?

They slump about the same time, as a rule, I suppose. If one of them slumps, the other finds an excuse to go along with him. Maybe I am not my husband's keeper, but certainly I am the keeper of my love. A precious prisoner is Cupid!

I resolved to see that he didn't escape!

Sister Mary's KITCHEN

In the kitchen of her own home Sister Mary cooks daily for a family of four adults. She brought to her kitchen an understanding of the chemistry of cooking, gained from study of domestic science in a state university. Consequently the advice she offers is a happy combination of theory and practice. Every recipe she gives is her own, first tried out and served at her family table.

Save every drop of fruit juice that happens to come your way.

Whenever a can of fruit is opened there is usually some extra juice. Put it in a closed jar and place it in the ice-box.

Fruit juices make delicious drinks for hot summer days and will save a little bit of sugar in that the canned juice was sweetened.

If one is not planning to use the juice soon it should be reheated and sealed. Then it will keep indefinitely.

Even half a cup of juice is worth taking care of. This amount of pineapple juice added to iced tea with a few sprigs of mint produces a different and refreshing taste.

MENU FOR TOMORROW

BREAKFAST—Sliced bananas, uncooked cereal, buttered toast, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Asparagus and chicken soup, new beets with greens, cranberry sauce, butter, tea.

DINNER—Veal loaf, creamed potatoes, buttered onions, grapefruit and pea salad, Washington pie, coffee.

Old potatoes are really much better for creaming than new ones. New potatoes are a trifle too hard to make a smooth vegetable. Let the old "murphies" stand in cold water after digging for an hour and the result will be as it should be. The veal loaf may be hot or cold.

Asparagus and Chicken Soup
3-pound chicken
1 carrot
3 stalks celery
1 medium-sized onion
Salt and pepper

Choose an old chicken if you are planning to use it only for soup. Wash and cut up. Put in a kettle with 6 cups of cold water, onion and carrots, diced. Bring slowly to a boil and let simmer 3 or 4 hours. At the end of an hour and a half add salt. Make a thin white sauce of 2 tablespoons of butter, 1 tablespoon of flour and 1½ cups milk. Strain chicken broth into sauce. Add 1 cup of cooked asparagus tips. Serve very hot.

Washington Pie
2 eggs
1-2 cup milk
1 cup powdered sugar
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-4 teaspoon salt

Custard
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon sugar
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat eggs with milk. Add sugar. Sift flour and baking powder and salt together and add. Bake in a pie pan. When done split and put in the custard. Beat yolk, add sugar and cornstarch and slowly add hot milk. Cook over hot water till it coats the spoon.

Cover the top with crushed strawberries. Beat white of egg saved from custard till stiff and dry. Beat in 2 tablespoons powdered sugar. Spread over berries and brown in a quick oven.

COLORS ON SANTIAGO WALLS

All Cuban cities offer a motley of tints, but Santiago outdoes them all in the chaotic jumble of pigments. In a single block we found house walls of lavender, sap green, robin's egg blue, maize yellow, sky gray, saffron, deep imperial pink, old rose, light pink, yellow ochre, maroon, tan, vermillion and purple. This jumble of colors, with never two shades of the same degree, gives the city a kaleidoscopic brilliancy under the tropical sun that is equally entrancing and trying to the eye. —Century Magazine.

ONE LITTLE PIMPLE SPOILS A BEAUTIFUL FACE

No matter how perfect the features, how radiant the complexion, just one little pimple will spoil it all.

Not always can these little facial blemishes be prevented for they may be caused by the too frequent use of irritating soaps, powders, rouge or possibly impure blood.

Every care should be taken to preserve the skin, especially the face, neck, arms and hands. Only the purest and best sterilized toilet soap should be used to cleanse the skin, and when a face powder must be employed, one of the highest quality should be selected.

When a pimple pops out on your face, you don't have to remain indoors or try to hide it. Simply touch the little spot with BLACK and WHITE Ointment and it will vanish almost like magic. This little aid to beauty should be kept on every woman's dressing table, because it is a necessary toilet requisite for removing other facial blemishes such as rough, blotchy, sallow skin. The way it clears the complexion is marvelous.

BLACK and WHITE Soap should always be used with the Ointment. Both are sold and guaranteed by all good drug stores at 25c each a package, or the manufacturers will send postpaid on receipt of 50c.
